This Is One Of Our Successful Methods

Our employees are all ages. We like the experience and wisdom that comes with age as well as the vitality and enthusiasm of the younger person.

The picture above shows Henry. He tends a very large garden area and is encouraged to think of it as his own. He makes decisions on when to do the different jobs and is encouraged to let us know if he requires any extra help. He also works as a Taxi driver and both jobs work well together.

We play to the strengths of all and support the areas where they need extra help or training while respecting the capabilities, experience and good sense of each person. We believe that a work force motivated by reward is much better than punitive methods.

It really does work. Our reward system ensures that staff members are able to look forwards to any unexpected site visit in anticipation of knowing the reward that comes for a job well done.

We can also relax if our clients pay an unexpected visit to any property we care for.

We have built, over the years, a very happy workforce. In fact, we have received comments and cards from them all, letting us know that we are a good company to work for.

This all goes to make for happy clients. After all, would you rather check your sites because you are concerned they may be deteriorating, or would you like the confidence of knowing they consistently look well, whoever goes to visit?
